

Women's Weekend Report

August 31, 2009

While Women's Weekend was successful in that everyone had a great time, it was not a success financially. There are several reasons for this: First and foremost, I undercharged for the weekend. Secondly, the weekend was not very well attended. I hate for my term on the ECW Board to end on such a sour note, but I'm sure Gethryn can turn things around next year. Women's Weekend is very important to my home church, and we hate to see it go by the wayside. I do apologize to Dee if she feels I've let her down this year. I just had way too much going at one time, and should have asked for more help.

I've enjoyed my time serving with the ECW Board, and hope to do it again in the future.
